

OPENING DOORS:

Imagine a Career in Medicine

Saturday, November 1, 2014

2:00 to 5:00 p.m.

Orbach Science Library

University of California, Riverside

Three outstanding surgeons from the Riverside area will talk about their experiences as African American surgeons, discuss preparing for a medical career, and answer questions from the audience.

Dean Richard Olds of the UCR School of Medicine will be the Master of Ceremonies and Dr. A. J. Rogers will open the event with a keynote presentation on the history of African American surgeons.

A reception will follow the program, giving students time to meet the presenters, view exhibits, and see demonstrations of mannequin-based simulators used in medical education.

The program OPENING DOORS is being held in conjunction with an exhibition from the National Library of Medicine on the theme OPENING DOORS: Contemporary African American Academic Surgeons.

The event is open to UCR students and other students in the community .

Sponsored by the UCR Library

in collaboration with the UCR School of Medicine and the Black Voice Foundation
